"A Yard of Roses."

One of the most popular paintings at the New York Academy of Design was a yard-long panel of roses. A crowd was always before it. One art critic exclaimed. "Su habit of nature should belong to all the people, it is too beautiful for one man

The Youth's Companion, of Boston, seized the idea and spent twenty thousand dollars to reproduce the painting. The result has been a triumph of artistic delicacy

The Companion makes this copy of the painting an autumn gift to each of its five hundred thousand subscribers. Any who may subscribe now for the first time and request it, will receive "The Yard of Roses" without extra charge while the edition

Besides the gift of this beautful picture all new subscribers will receive the Companion free from the time the subscription s received till January 1st, including the Thanksgiving and Christmas Double Numbers, and for a full year from that date. Every family should take this brightest and best of illustrated literary papers in addition to its local paper.

Not to be Endured.

If the federal government desires to stamp out the lottery evil, there will be opposition on the part of the people and the press but if it gives irr sponsible underlings the power to slamp out the press when it exercises its right to discuss the law, the result will be not only opposition, but indignation and triuble all along

Just now the papers are having a good deal to say about the arrest of a Wisconsin editor because he published a clipping from an exchange questioning the validity of the anti-lottery law. If the arrest was made for nothing more than this, then it is putting it mildly to say that our government has become Russianized, so far as treatment of the press is concerned. This policy will not work. If letteries cannot be destroyed without destroying the freedom of the press, the people will be in favor of letting the lotteries alone. We cannot afford to yield our right to speak and publish fair criticisms of public measures.
